Savannah College of Art and Design preservation specialist Bob Dickensheets conducts a tour of Ivy Hall, 179 Ponce de Leon Ave. N.E., formerly known as the Peters House, June 1. More than 350 visitors from the Atlanta community joined the tour.

S.D.H. Investment Corp. Inc. donated the property to SCAD this spring, and the college announced plans to renovate the facility to serve as a cultural arts center.

The 1883 building first housed the family of Edward C. Peters, who also referred to it as Ivy Hall, and later The Mansion restaurant. The Peters House was listed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1972 and was designated an Atlanta Landmark Building by the Atlanta Urban Design Commission in 1989. In 2001 and 2003, the Atlanta Preservation Center listed the house among the most endangered buildings in Atlanta.

“I envision a cultural arts center where the community can gather to enjoy world-class art, design and literature,” said SCAD President Paula S. Wallace. “When the opportunity to acquire the Peters House presented itself, I knew we had to step in to save this beautiful and historic home, not only for the college but for the people of Atlanta as well.”
